BALTIMORE CORRESPONDENCE.

A Medical Manifesto—Cholera in Western Maryland—Governatorial Troubles—Stock Sales.

BALTIMORE, July 21, 1853.

The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland have issued an edict against all secret or quack medicines, and against all apothecaries who will not cease offering the same for sale. They also declare as unprofessional, and disqualifying a physician from membership in the faculty, the giving of certificates as to the efficiency of quack medicines; the making and compounding of any secret remedy, with the view of its being sold in like manner as a secret remedy; and also the receiving of a per centage or any other kind of remuneration from a druggist on prescriptions made by the physician. Their next move should be to discountenance their own secret practice of writing prescriptions in Latin, as they thus become secret nostrums to those who are called on to swallow them.

There seems to be no doubt of the fact that the cholera is raging in the western part of Maryland, with considerable fatality. There has already been fifty-five deaths in the little town of Williamsport, and it is now spreading in the country around. It has also broken out at Emmittsburg, where there was six deaths on Friday and Saturday last; and there have also been some deaths at Mechanicville, in Frederick county.

As the Walter Mitchell stock for the Democratic nomination declines, other candidates are pushing forward their claims. The Hon. Thomas Watkins Ligon is now taking the stump, and is haranguing the people most eloquently and spiritedly on his peculiar claims and qualifications, though qualifications are of but slight importance with political nominating conventions of all parties.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE HORTICULTURAL AND FLORAL EXHIBITION yesterday, at the hall over Claggett and Dodson's store, was supplied with choice specimens of garden fruits, vegetables, and flowers; and we noticed the names of several new contributors. Mr. John L. Wirt, of Capitol Hill, displayed a basket of seedling apricots of largest size, blushing beautiful and peach-like in appearance, and of fine flavor; Mr. J. Boulanger, a lot of green gages; Mr. Joseph L. Smith likewise had several varieties of the same description of fruit, not so large, but equally pleasant to the taste. Mrs. William Robinson, of Georgetown, a small basket of lemons which elicited general admiration. John Watts contributed, from the garden of the President of the United States, egg-plants, onions, beans, beefs, carrots, peppers, tomatoes, potatoes, and other vegetables, which suggested the thought that General Pierce can have no reason whatever to complain of the quality of those table requisites.

Three chickens were exhibited by R. Wallach, esq. They are Brahmah Pootra fowls, large and valuable.

The display of flowers was very beautiful, and the collections creditable to the taste of the depositors.

THE CORNER-STONE of the Fourth Baptist Church, on Thirteenth street, between G and H streets, was laid yesterday afternoon. A procession was formed in front of the Tenth street Baptist Church, and proceeded to the site of the proposed edifice. Rev. Dr. Dowling, of Philadelphia, delivered the opening address. The ceremonies of the laying of the stone were conducted by the Masonic Fraternity. We noticed among the concourse of people a number of the Sons of Temperance in regalia. Two new hymns were sung, the choir and band of musicians in attendance.

The officers of the church are, Rev. Dr. Toombs, pastor; J. C. Lewis and S. Lester, deacons, and Enoch Burnett, Thomas Griffin, and J. T. K. Plant, trustees.

Of the mechanics engaged in the erection of the church, Mr. Samuel Wise is the carpenter, and John Gregory the mason.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—Second District School. Thomas M. Wilson, principal, was visited on Wednesday afternoon by Mayor Maury, and Messrs. Haliday, Harbaugh, Donoh, Abbot, Bacons, Walsh, Randolph, and Davis, of the Trustees, and by Messrs. Hill, Callan, Burns, and Peppers, of the City Councils. The exercises were chiefly in spelling, reading, arithmetic, mensuration, English grammar, and geography. The order of the school was excellent, and the answers elicited by the questions of examiners evinced a regular and successful development of the various studies upon which the pupils had been engaged.

Colonel W. B. Randolph, in addressing the pupils at the close on the part of the trustees, congratulated the school upon the improvement made, and presented suitable incentives to increased exertion on the part of the young students.

THE "OUT-DOOR POOR."—The expense of the new system for furnishing medicines to the poor was about one hundred and two dollars for two months. The salaries of the physicians for that portion of the community during the same period amounted to one hundred and sixteen dollars, making the total expense two hundred and eighteen dollars, or at the rate of about thirteen hundred dollars per annum. It is supposed by the Mayor of Washington that the expense of furnishing medicines will probably increase as the arrangement for the supply of the poor becomes more known among them. We are inclined to look upon the accounts above rendered as extremely

SALE OF GROUND.—A piece of ground in square 484, corner of Fifth and I streets, was sold yesterday evening by McGuire, auctioneer, at 40 cents a square foot, to Mr. Anderson.

THE COST OF A CHICKEN.—Yesterday morn-

The office was densely crowded, the spectators, including constables, gentlemen of leisure, and half-grown boys; some of whom had, to all appearance, hurried away from their work to witness the proceedings. It is almost needless to say that the window was darkened by numerous black faces peering in, while the doorway was wedged up by an anxious crowd. All eyes, of course, were directed to the scene. Little knots of men and boys, too, were earnestly discussing the matter on the pavement.

An "item" being a valuable commodity during these times, we immediately drew near, pressed our way in, (after much difficulty,) and suc-needed in obtaining food enough to stand upon. There sat the Justice—two chickens, the innocent victims of the preceding day's proceedings. The logs tied to keep it from flying off. Learned counsel, Gilbert L. Gibson and Col. Thompson, were on his right, both warmly contesting some important point relative to the matter at issue.

Witnesses were examined, and re-examined, and there was much cross-examination, difficult to arrive at the precise nature of the facts. But they simply appeared to be these: Two men, living on the same premises, under the same roof—a partition wall only separating them—enjoy, in common a wide field, which has no fencing; and both keep chickens. Recently, a chicken from the collection of the one was found among the chickens of the latter, who had been taken from a colored woman, not ascertaining that there was any foul play concerning it. So the first procured a warrant against the colored woman for the larceny of the bird.

This case could not be submitted without argument; therefore

Mr. Giberson (counsel for the defence) said, in the course of his remarks, there was no proof of felony. He was confident the chicken had strayed there. This was the reasonable presumption; and yet for a chicken, worth only twenty-five cense, counsel has been employed by the complainant, an unusual thing in such pitiful cases. During a practice of twenty-five years at the bar he had never seen any thing more frivolous. If there had been any intention to steal, all the six chickens would have been stolen, and not one only. Colonel Thompson interrupted his learned friend. Was it not rather gratuitous to denounce this as a pitiful question? Mr. Giberson, (explaining,) I meant only so

Colonel Thompson resumed, contending that this was not such a pitiful question, after all, and that if "the Nestor of the Washington bar" would go down to the "blue jug" down to the penitentiary he would find numerous precedents.

Mr. Giberson. Not for a single chicken, in the penitentiary.

Colonel Thompson. I admit not for a single chicken, but for the larceny of other things in connexion, to make up the sum of five dollars. But there are persons in jail for the larceny of smaller things than the worth of this chicken.

The case, after further argument, was submitted.

The Justice remarked: This is a small matter
